This week we consider:

Out of our comfort zones

Facebook pictures of the week:

Each half term, students who have been nominated by their teachers for outstanding work or gained the 'red sash' meet with the principal for a discussion and a piece of cake.

The red sashes have been a distinctive feature of the College uniform for as long as anyone can remember, awarded for 'deportment', with tales of girls having to walk the length of the gym with books balanced on their heads to prove they had good posture!

These days, we are far more interested in our students' personal qualities and therefore the sash is awarded in recognition of services to the College.

Congratulations to everyone who received an award or certificate!
